NEWSPAPER OF THE SAINT JOSEPH'S COLLEGE COMMUNITY

Vol. 39 Rensselaer, Indiana, Thursday, September 11, 1975 No. 1

Froelich Accepts Guidance Post; Department Fills Student Needs

If you're the type of person who likes variety in his job and a new challenge every day, the duties of Saint Joseph's Director of Guidance and Placement would provide this and more.

Father James E. Froelich is now into his first school year in this demanding, absorbing responsibility and he's quick to see the importance of his office to the overall college.

"As a small college interested in personal, individual education, our office does much to continue the institutional concern for the student, not only as a student but as a person," Father Froelich begins. "This college has a continuous flow of interest in the student, helping him to come here from high school, then helping him as he steps away from graduation into another school or into a profession."

To start with, Father Froelich says he will continue most of the same policies established by his predecessors, Larry Lennon and Richard Scharf. "This office is like a bandage—we help in healing all sorts of problems, be they academic, psychic, disciplinary or motivational—and it requires that you have a few basic understandings about college students today," he explains.

"Usually, when a student enters college, he knows in general what he wants to gain from his undergraduate experience. But at the same time, a student may still be developing his value system, specific goals and other factors affecting his lifestyle."

Allowing that college is a time of transition, sometimes even of rapid development and change for students, Father Froelich stresses that his job is to help students in coping with the myriad of problems that may arise.

"In some cases, a student may have little trouble coping with day-to-day life, but he needs to gain a sense of enthusiasm or motivation toward his life and his goals," he explains. "In other cases, a counselor can't actually solve a student's problems, but by listening and caring and offering suggestions, he can help a great deal."

New Members, Varied Talents Enhance College Faculty, Staff

In addition to the 380 members of the class of '79, there are eight new faculty and staff members joining Saint Joseph's community this year, three of whom are SJC alumni.

William Del Principe, a 1973 alumnus, has joined the faculty as an instructor in accounting-finance. A 23-year-old native of Chicago, he has done graduate work at DePaul University in Chicago and worked as a certified public accountant for Ernst & Ernst in Chicago. He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Illinois Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Gerald R. Lasko has joined the Puma football staff as an assistant coach. A 28-year-old native of Westlake, Ohio, he is a 1970 SJC graduate who co-captained the 1968 team here and won three varsity monograms. He subsequently earned a master's degree from Indiana State University and comes to Saint Joseph's from Sullivan (Ind.) High School, where he was head football coach in 1974.

Kevin H. Ryan, a 1975 alumnus, has joined the Office of Admissions staff as a counselor. Recipient of a bachelor of science degree in finance last June, he was active in student government during his college career, serving as treasurer of the Student Association during 1974-75.

William T. Craig is the new Director of Admissions. A 31-year-old native of Yonkers, N.Y., he was Admissions Chief at Sacred Heart College in Belmont, N.C., for the past two years. He earned his bachelor's degree at Bowling Green (Ohio) State University in 1969 and is currently a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Oregon. He is a member of the National Association of College Admissions Counselors.

Bradley A. Smith, 24, of Kokomo, Ind., has joined the athletic staff as head trainer. A 1973 graduate of Purdue University with a bachelor's degree in physical education and pre-physical therapy, he also received a master's degree in physical education with a minor in athletic training earlier this summer from the University of Arizona.

Robert J. Vigeant has been named head librarian. A 47-year-old native of Worcester, Mass., he was librarian and head of technical services since 1971 at Washington & Lee University in Lexington, Va. He is a 1950 graduate of Assumption College at Worcester and in 1957 he earned a master's degree in library science from the Simmons School of Library Science at Boston.

Charles L. Weber will be an assistant professor of economics. A lecturer in finance at Roosevelt University during 1973-74, he worked on his doctorate at the University of Chicago last year. He earned a master's degree in economics from Indiana University in 1970.

Rosalie Wendling has joined the faculty as an instructor in physical education. A 31-year-old native of Shelbyville, Ind., Miss Wendling earned a master's degree in physical education from Indiana University earlier this year. In 1968, she received a bachelor's degree in health, physical education and recreation from Indiana State University.

A familiar face, Father Bernard J. Meiring, has been named Executive Vice-President. He earned a master's degree from the University of Detroit in 1957 and a doctorate from the University of California in 1963. He joined Saint Joseph's faculty as an instructor in 1957, was promoted to assistant professor in 1964, associate professor in 1966 and full professor in 1970.

Classical dances of India, performed by world-renowned Manjusri, will be presented at Saint Joseph's College Sept. 23 as part of the school's Non-Western Core program.

"Saint Joseph's is honored to have a performer of this magnitude visiting its campus, and this should mark one of the academic and cultural highlights of the 1975-76 school year," reports Dr. John P. Posey, associate professor of history and Director of Non-Western Core.

Manjusri's performance begins at 7 p.m. in the college auditorium. There will be no admission charge.

Visible Improvements

While driving down College Avenue toward school last week many of us had mixed emotions. We were all anxious to see our friends, do some partying, and maybe even study a little. But we wondered about the less desirable aspects of life at Saint Joe's. Will we have to roll up our jeans and wade through the "lake" between Seifert and the Post Office after a rain? Will the bad acoustics in the Science Building prevent us from hearing 90 percent of what our profs say? Will there be hot water in the dorms? What about heat this winter? The overall condition of the campus last spring left most of us with a case of blahs.

One of the first welcome sights to greet returning students was the fieldhouse, which had received a summer-time facelift in the form of sandblasting and painting. Soon it was obvious to us that many other improvements had been made.

The road leading to Xavier as well as that between Seifert and the Post Office had been paved. Acoustical tile was placed on the ceilings of both Science Building classrooms and the Halleck Center ballroom. Justin's first floor lounge was recarpeted. Halas and the Science Building were provided with new curtains. Part of Raleigh Hall was converted into classroom space and the fieldhouse balcony was given more adequate women's physical education facilities. The conference rooms in Halleck Center were paneled and carpeted.

Other important renovations are not as readily noticeable. A new roof was added to the Science Building and Washburn Hall and the powerhouse received badly-needed attention. The auditorium balcony was also repaired. Considerable routine repairs and maintenance also were completed.

We realize that this campus isn't as modern and well-equipped as many larger schools, but it isn't as cold, either. Most of us prefer the rich history and the warm, friendly atmosphere of Saint Joe's. What we must realize is that each of us is a part of the history and atmosphere of this school. In a school as old as Saint Joseph's, maintenance is especially important. (A stitch in time saves nine, you know.) This is the time for reminding students that they must do their part in keeping Collegeville beautiful. If the maintenance staff has to spend its time cleaning up after students, it won't have the time to look after the routine repairs necessary to prevent small problems from becoming disasters. Who knows, if we each do our part, the maintenance crew may be able to devote time to the Chapel and Grotto.

tutional commitment to counseling, in which all faculty, departmental chairmen and even administrators extend help when possible.

"Jerry Hughes, our Dean of Students, and Larry Lennon, our Clinical Psychologist, can help if the problem is disciplinary or emotional, but I would stress that the continued success of our guidance program depends on the faculty," Father Froelich reports. "Certainly if a student's problem is academic or vocational, a faculty member may be the best counselor of all.

"But even in other cases, I can envision times when a student may feel most comfortable discussing a personal affair with a faculty member. And I'm happy to know that our faculty has most eagerly sought out and helped students with a wide range of problems."

In his placement duties, Father Froelich serves as a bridge between the student and the professional world by providing an attractive meeting place for job interviews and students, by arranging advance schedules for such interviews and by maintaining updated lists of job openings for students.

"We also keep a file of all letters of recommendation plus biographical data on our students, and this can be compiled and provided according to the needs of a student or prospective employer," he says. "Beyond this scope, our placement office seeks to motivate students in their career aspirations."

Father Froelich believes a student should experience definite steps toward career development as he moves through college, starting with the building of realistic expectations during orientation, self-assessment as a freshman and establishment of tentative career goals as a sophomore.

When a junior, he says the student should test the reality of his choice of goals, then the senior should directly project himself into the professional world or graduate school.

"The purpose of this office is to help, and with the continued cooperation of our faculty and students, our efforts should be most successful," Father Froelich says. "In particular, we welcome the ideas of all faculty and students who have suggestions on how we can better help this college fulfill its commitment to the individual student."

SJC Women's Club Greets New Coeds

Freshmen girls were treated to tea, punch, and cookies by the Saint Joseph's Women's Club Sunday in the Justin lounge. Among the door prizes awarded were plants and a "The devil made me do it" certificate which, if presented to Dean Hughes, will let the bearer "off the hook." This year's Women's Club officers are: president, Wendy Hughes; vice-president, Louise Ames; treasurer, Julia Mehall; and secretary, Mary Chesak.

Letter To Editors

Dear Editors,

I am writing to you on behalf of the residents of third floor Gallagher. We would like some justification for Father Reale's decision to take over part of the third floor. He has not only inconvenienced the R. A. by moving into his room, but also the rest of the residents by moving into their study lounge. Why should he move us out of a room we used to study in when he spends less than 50 percent of his time in the room anyway? We are not objecting to the fact that he lives on our floor, but that he seems to be able to do as he pleases without even notifying the other residents.

When Father Reale lived on the first floor, he occupied only two rooms. We are wondering if the fact that the third floor lounge is air conditioned had any influence on his decision? Is this Father Reale's Christian idea of sharing with his fellow man?

Saint Joseph's Greg Duggin (33) roars upfield for an 11-yard gain before he was stopped by Olivet's John Frederick (3). Larry Olewinski (42) and Terry Dane (53) move in too late to prevent the tackle. Duggin was SJC's top runner in the game.

Tough Opponents Invade SJC

In the next two weeks, the largest team in the Indiana Collegiate Conference, and one of the nation's premier running quarterbacks will invade Collegeville as the Pumas open their 1975 conference season and seek to snap a ten-game losing streak at the hands of Indiana Central and Wayne State.

The Greyhounds, 5-5 last year, including a 28-12 victory over the Pumas in Indianapolis, have 30 returning lettermen, including running backs Steve Montgomery and Dick Nalley plus quarterback Rod Pawlik. Their explosive offense produced a season-opening 54-8 win over Findlay of Ohio as Montgomery scored four touchdowns and Nalley two. They favor a ball-control offense directed by four-year regular Pawlik. His favorite receivers are Karl Beer and Tim Leonard.

The offensive line is keyed by tackle Vance Stratton and center Rick Gardner, while the defense is bolstered by linebackers Ken Brooks and Ron Faris. Deep-backs Mark Sciarra and Dave Wood intercepted four Puma aeriels in last year's contest.

Wayne State University of Detroit comes to Collegeville Sept. 20. The Tartars return 28 monogram winners from the 7-3-0 club of '74 that beat the Pumas 8-6. A balanced offense paced by field general Ed Skowneski, who has run for 1491 yards in the last two years as a regular quarterback, is the WSU strong suit.

Fullback Mike Stankovich lends solid running power, while half-back Bob Rogers provides good outside speed. Bill Oswald and John Sokolowski anchor a rugged offensive front. Keith Anleitner is a heady linebacker and safety Terry Rusin, top pass thief in NCAA Division II a year ago with ten interceptions, is director of the secondary.

Last Saturday, the Pumas shocked Olivet with two first-half touchdowns and clutch defensive play before the Comets struggled back for a 17-13 win in the final 30 minutes.

For the offense, SJC showed it can strike deliberately on the ground or quickly through the air. Late in the first quarter, the Pumas marched 76 yards in 12 plays, with Greg Duggin and Fred Gnerlich combining for 35 yards on the ground. Quarterback Jeff Taylor then scampered the final five yards for the touchdown on the final play of the quarter, and Craig Andrews added the conversion for a 7-0 lead.

With 2:34 left in the second quarter, Taylor lofted a strike to Little All-American Larry Olewinski for a 62-yard scoring play.

Defensively, the Pumas gave yardage grudgingly but stopped the Comets twice within the SJC ten-yard line, once inside the 30 and freshman Roy Kuennan pounced on an Olivet fumble and intercepted a pass, before Michigan Intercollegiate Association champion Olivet came back to win the game in the fourth quarter.

entries must be in by Oct. 1.

"We're very enthusiastic about IM's this year," Weinert reports. "We ran a survey of students over the summer and found out the complaints about last year's program. We're trying hard to improve these problem spots, and we now have better equipment and better awards for the students. We look forward to a lot of student input."

Interested freshmen are very important to the Women's Recreation Association—a fact worth repeating as the WRA enters a new year.

Director Shirley Weinert is hopeful of a big freshmen turnout, as this year's activities are geared toward every female on campus.

Powderpuff football opens this year's slate of activities and will again be culminated by the annual Parents Day game Oct. 4, featuring the Powderpuff Champs vs. the All-Stars.

Softball begins Sept. 22, with entry forms due no later than Sept. 16. The WRA tennis tournament will start Sept. 18 and entries must be in Sept. 17.

Future events during the first semester are coed golf, swimming and coed swimming, co-rec bowling, a track and field meet, and volleyball. Second semester activities include basketball and a free throw contest, coed volleyball and 16-inch softball.

The Superstars are coming. Taken from the same name as the television series, Superstars competition will be one of many additions to this year's intramural sports program.

Primarily a one or two-man operation in the past, this year a four-man committee composed of John Weinert, Roger Fraser, Jim Lyons and Sal Caraco will face the task of rejuvenating the IM program.

The committee will sponsor a series of "weekend specials," open competition that will not be dorm vs. dorm. The first "special" will be a three-on-three basketball tournament starting at 1 p.m. Sunday. However, anyone who has ever received a varsity letter in basketball will not be allowed to enter. Entries are due in the IM office by 5 p.m. Friday.

Future "specials" will be a Superstars competition Oct. 5, where six-man teams compete in a variety of events, and an open softball tournament Oct. 19. The committee also says the IM office will now be open from 1-10 p.m., seven days a week.

Football rosters will be accepted until Wednesday at the fieldhouse. Play begins Sept. 22, as the Bennett Kanabis Kids return to defend their title. The golf tournament will begin Oct. 6, with entries due Oct. 2. Cross country will be run Oct. 3 and

PUMA PRINTS

Baseballers Reach NCAA

By JERRY BRUNE and JAI SCHIAVONE

"This was clearly my most gratifying year ever in coaching," says Saint Joseph's baseball coach George Post as he reflects on the Pumas' 1975 season. That statement comes as no surprise.

On Apr. 25, the final day of classes last year, the Pumas were struggling along with a 12-12 record, 1-5 in the ICC. But after classes ended the baseballers went to work at shattering 20 all-time school records and became the winningest Puma team in history with a record of 27-16.

There were many highlights in the 1975 season. The Pumas went on a ten-game winning streak starting Apr. 26, including six ICC contests, to tie for second place with a 7-5 mark. Highlighting the streak was a 4-0, 2-0 sweep of Valparaiso, the first time the Crusaders had been shut out twice in 20 years.

Next in line was the SJC Midwest Classic May 10-11. After a second-place finish and a post-season banquet on Sunday, the players were sent home, only to be called on Tuesday with the news that the Pumas had been invited to the NCAA Mideast Regional. It was the first time in school history that two Puma teams entered NCAA tourneys in the same school year.

First obstacle for the Pumas in the double-elimination tournament was Marietta, Ohio, the heavy favorite (36-3 record) and the eventual national runner-up. After upsetting 10th-ranked Marietta, SJC went on to beat 17th-ranked Wright State and 24th-ranked SIU-Edwardsville and was the only unbeaten team on Saturday night. After two days of rain, Marietta came out of the loser's bracket to beat the Pumas twice and send them home in second place out of the 79 schools in the Mideast Regional and in the top 12 in the country.

Even more of a highlight is the future at Saint Joe's. There were only two seniors on last year's squad, and there are seven pitchers among 15 recruits for next year's team. Here are some names to watch for next spring: Kevin Sims from Lafayette Jefferson, who was 13-1 and batted .424 as a pitcher-shortstop. He was drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates as a hitter and should fill the only soft spot in last year's lineup. Another standout prospect is Bobby Schuckers from Wirt High School in Gary, Ind., who was 9-3 with an 0.64 ERA and 101 strikeouts in 65 innings. He hit .373 with six home runs as a pitcher-second baseman.

Other prospects include pitcher Mike Luck from Tri-County; lefthander Dennis Grady from Dowagiac, Mich.; pitcher John Bauman from Battle Creek, Mich.; pitcher Joe Bockerstette, who was one of the top three hurlers in Cincinnati last year; infielder-outfielder Frank Walsh from Greenfield, Ind., who stole 41 consecutive bases in 1975. Also look for freshmen Joe Cutler, Craig Larson, Kenny Gill, Craig Adams, John Ross, and Brian Klabunde to make solid contributions.

Add these names to co-captains Jeff Taylor and Barry Blane and other 1975 stars, and the Pumas shape up to be a very solid ICC and NCAA contender in 1976.

The Pumas will have a tough schedule again in '76, featuring opponents like Notre Dame, Dayton, Purdue and Eastern Illinois.

Concerning the Pumas' recent success with three straight winning seasons, Post comments, "This is not a one-shot affair. Now that we're up on top, we want to stay there."

The Saint Joseph's College family lost a dear friend July 9 with the death of athletic trainer John "Red" Kenney. His dedication to this college, his superior professionalism as a trainer, his refreshing sense of humor, his sensitivity to and concern for the feelings and problems of those who knew him—these are qualities he brought to this campus, and we treasure them. Stuff expresses its deepest sympathy to his wife, children and relatives.

Mark Hahn Academic All-American

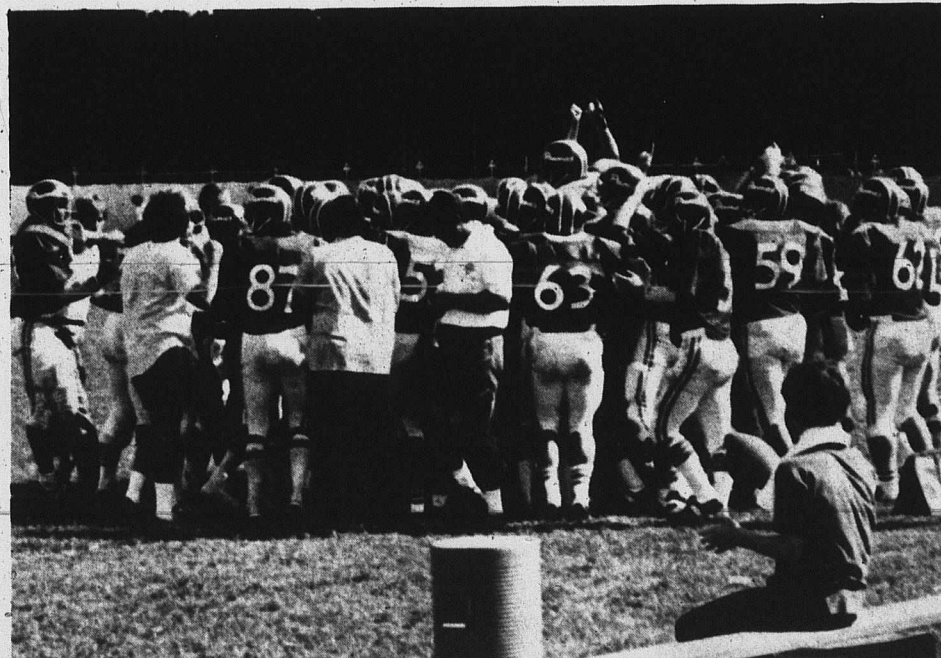

Mark Hahn, Saint Joseph's clutch-hitting third baseman from Warren, Pa., has been named to the 1975 Academic All-American Baseball Team as chosen by the College Sports Information Directors of America.

He has compiled a 3.44 cumulative grade index, based on Saint Joseph's 4.00 scale, during his first four semesters at Collegeville.

Hahn led the 1975 Puma regulars in batting with a .317 average and in base hits with 40. He also ranked second on the team in runs scored with 22 and runs batted in with 20. He tied for the team leadership in doubles with nine and stole eight bases in eight attempts.

He was named to the all-tournament team for the 1975 NCAA Division II Mideast Regional at Charleston, Ill. Hahn has been a member of the college Dean's List for the last three semesters and in 1974-75 he was named to Who's Who Among Outstanding College Athletes.

Team spirit rose to a peak just before the opening kickoff Saturday. Here the Pumas' pre-game huddle erupts in a cheer as the team prepares to take the field against Olivet.
